Think About It (Page 13)Question 1.

What are Hari Singh's reactions at the prospect of receiving an education? Do they change overtime? {Hint: compare, for example, the thought: 'I knew that once I could write like an educated man there would be no limit to what I could achieve' with these later thoughts:

'Whole sentences, I knew, could one day bring me more than a few hundred rupees. It was a simple matter to steal and sometimes just as simple to be caught. But to be a really big man, a clever and respected man, was something else.')} What makes him return to Anil?

Answer:

Hari was very happy and grateful when he learned to write his name. He was very excited when Anil promised to teach him to write whole sentences as well. He knew that being an educated man will add to his abilities and he could achieve anything. But when he left Anil's house, he realised that stealing was simply a crime to indulge himself but being educated was an entirely different thing. He knew the respect, reputation and possibilities that would come to him once he was educated. And so his urge to receive education compelled him to return to Anil.

Question 2.

Why does Anil not hand the thief over to the police? Do you think most people would have done so? In what ways is Anil different from such employers?

Answer:

Unlike others, Anil does not handover Hari to the police on theft charges. He knew about the theft but he did not thrash him nor even mentioned it in front of Hari. He was glad that Hari had realised his mistake and the importance of education in life.

Anil wanted Hari to become a literate man and lead a respectful life.

He is different from other such employers because he is very understanding. Hari's return gave him the hope of a change in him.

Question 1.

Do you think people like Anil and Hari Singh are found only in fiction, or are there such people in real life?

Answer:

People like Anil and Hari Singh are found only in fiction. Though exceptions might be there, these people are rarely found. Anil was a kind and considerate person who was concerned, about Hari's education and future. And Hari was a thief whose heart changes after realising the importance of education for his future. People like these are imaginary in today's world.

Question 2.

Do you think it is a significant detail in story that Anil is a struggling writer? This explains his behaviour in any way

Answer:

Yes, it is a significant detail that Anil is a struggling writer. His lifestyle was simple and used to spend according to his pocket at all times. His struggle sometimes gave him a lot of income while at other times he used to worry about the next payment. Hari's observation about the discontinuation in his work justifies his behaviour regarding money.

Question 3.

Have you met anyone like Hari Singh? Can you think and imagine the circumstances that can turn a fifteen-year-old boy into a thief?

Answer:

No, I haven't met anyone like Hari Singh but the existence of such people is certain. A fifteen-year-old boy can be forced by circumstances to become a thief. It may be the need to feed the stomach, to satisfy illegal addiction, to maintain health, to fulfil luxurious demands etc
